A Cushing Suicide

Eino Lindell, 31, Was Despondent Because Of Crippled Condition

Eino Lindell, 31, of Cushing, committed suicide in the woodshed of his home sometime between 1 and 4 p. m. Wednesday, by shooting himself through the heart with a shotgun.

A note discovered in his clothing after death showed despondency as the motive for his act. Crippled from infancy, he was reported to have been in poor health.

He and his father, John Lindell, had returned to their farm in the winter after living the greater part of the war in Quincy, Mass., where both were employed in defense work. The mother, Mrs. Eleanor Lindell, is reported to be employed in Brookline, Mass.

The father had gone to Thomaston Wednesday on a shopping trip and discovered his son's body upon his return about 4 o'clock.

State Police Officers, Ray Foley and Stanley Poland investigated. Dr. Charles D. North, Knox County Medical Examiner, delivered a verdict of "suicide from a self inflicted shot."

Funeral services will be held from the Davis Funeral Home Thomaston, Sunday at 2 o'clock.

News was received here yesterday of the death of Mrs. Herbert Maxey. Burial will take place in Boothbay Harbor. The Maxeys formerly resided in Knox County.

BECAME A LAW YESTERDAY

The New Zoning Ordinance Should Be Read Carefully By Every Citizen

Rockland yesterday established itself as one of the more progressive cities in the State in joining Portland, South Portland and Bangor in the enactment of a zoning ordinance.

This ordinance will govern the location of industrial, commercial and residential areas throughout the city. The ordinance directs the building inspector of the city and does not give him any authority to deviate at all from the limitations of the ordinance.

Should cases arise where there is a dispute over the type of building, or type of business, which may be constructed or carried on, as the case may be, in any given area, the inspector must act exactly as the ordinance reads. However, there will be a board of appeals which will hear such cases and will have the authority to grant exceptions providing they do not infringe upon the rights of adjoining property owners.

Much care has been given in the selection of this board of appeals. The names will be presented at the meeting of the City Council next Monday night for approval. One will be an engineer, the second an attorney and the third member a business man, who has given much study to zoning. To do away with the possibility of any member sitting on a case, in which he is personally interested, a fourth member will serve as an alternate and will temporarily take the chair of any member who is interested personally in any case, that member not taking any part at all in the discussion or decision.

Waterville is now preparing a similar ordinance while Lewiston has already four public hearings on their proposed zoning ordinance.

The zones are defined as Zone A covering special residence. This definition for a specified area may be requested by any group of property owners to cover the area in which they reside. Zone B will cover general residence. Zone C covers central commercial which takes in the business district of Main and Park streets. Zone D is classed as neighborhood commercial and covers areas to be determined by amendment, for the present it covers such areas as are included in Zone B. Zone E is the industrial area of the city and extends along the waterfront with the exception of the areas known as Schofield-White Park and the Public Landing. This zone includes the right of way of the Maine Central Railroad Company as well.

Use regulations of Zone A are strict and provide that no dwelling may be constructed on a lot which has less than 7500 square feet of space and that the dwelling may not occupy more than 35 percent of the total lot area. Every dwelling constructed under this ordinance must have a first floor area of not less than 600 square feet. Every lot shall have a street frontage of not less than 50 feet; a front yard not less than 25 feet in depth and a back yard not less than 25 feet. Side yards must not measure less than eight feet on each side of the dwelling and the total of the two must not be less than 20 feet.

Fowl, cattle, sheep, goats or swine may not be kept in the residential zones and all dwellings must be provided with adequate water supply and sanitary sewage facilities.

The regulations of Zone B are much more liberal and permit hotels, lodging houses, boarding houses not involving any business other than for the convenience of the guests. Churches, convents, hospitals, clinics, sanitariums, museums, art galleries, libraries, golf courses, parks, playgrounds not conducted for profit, but devoted to municipal recreational use. Truck gardening is permitted and greenhouses may exist if not located nearer than 60 feet to the front line of the lot and 25 feet from each side.

Home occupations or professions may be carried on, providing the occupation or professional activities are confined to the dwelling or in a building upon the same lot.

No dwelling may be erected upon a lot less than 5000 square feet in area and each family in the dwelling must have 2500 square feet each. A single family dwelling may be constructed on any lot of record at the time the ordinance became effective.

No house shall occupy more than 40 percent of the lot area while accessory buildings may not occupy more than an additional 20 percent for a total area of not more than 60 percent of the lot. No building may be erected on a lot having less than 50 foot frontage. Front yards must be 15 feet in depth or 15 percent of the lot depth. Back yards must be 20 feet or 20 percent of the lot depth whichever is the less. Side yards must be at least five feet in width; but both side yards must have a total width of 24 feet.

Off street parking must be provided for one car to each family; or one car to each 10 roomers in the case of a boarding or rooming house.

Copies of the ordinance may be obtained at the office of the City Clerk. All construction and all location of residential, commercial or industrial structures now come under this ordinance, which became law yesterday.

Patrons and patronesses attending the Sea Scout Bridge of Honor and ball are Mr. and Mrs. Joshua N. Southard, Mr. and Mrs. Allison Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Whitehill. During the Bridge, there will be awards to Apprentice Seaman, Ordinary Seamen and Able Seamen. There is also expected to be one Quartermaster award, a coveted honor which few attain. The affair will be semi-formal with girls wearing evening gowns. The date is Friday evening, May 24.

The Black Cat

(By The Roving Reporter)

When the late "Lev" Black was manager of Farwell Opera House the agent of a show troupe wired to him the request for a loan of $25. Col. Black never lacked for a reply, and the telegram which he sent back read: "In the show business 36 years. Try Bar Harbor."

The late W. O. Fuller of Rockland, for years editor of The Courier-Gazette and a columnist for one of the New York dailies, was a collector of Dickens' items, including many books. This valuable material is now in the Colby College library, the gift of the widow, who is living in Rockland. Nearly 300 volumes are now being arranged there for reference use.—Lewiston Journal

I received this morning a request to make public the name of the person advertising for kittens for experimental purposes, "so we could express our disgust and indignation to anyone taking money for poor defenseless animals." Unfortunately the request bears no signature except "A member of the Anti-Vivisection Society."

Oldtimers will recall with much amusement the humorous sayings of the late Ferd G. Singhi, who kept a barber shop at the corner of Main and Spring street. Once his door bore this sign: "I got in a pickle, so I am shaving for a nickel."

"Too bad the merchants' committee was 'split wide open' on the matter of Wednesday closing," writes Ellen D. Tolman from Auburn, Mass., who adds: "It is not conducive to best business interests." And again Miss Tolman adds: "All best wishes for the old home town, and continued success to The Courier-Gazette."

Most of the hard surface roads in this section came through the winter in hospital style—"as well as can be expected." Not so, however, the back road between Warren and Union.

Dorothy Green of Lisbon Falls writes: "Tickets to hear Toscanini in Milan are $100. Opera House filled. We poor people of U. S. A. are asked to feed free the poor of Italy. Why should the rich of Italy give the people of U.S.A. some of their money to help pay the bills and save their people from being paupers of the world. There is something phoney about all this charity. Someone must be making money on it. Italians maimed and killed a lot of Americans. Hell the rich, to hell with us who pay the bills. We will live to fight for and feed them again."

As if New Jersey mosquitoes were not bad enough the farmers down that way have discovered that the long horned weevil, a native of Japan, is camping on their crops. Page Gen. MacArthur!

One year ago—Burglars burst the safe combination at the Maine Central depot, and got $260.—Sgt. Wendell A. Mitchell of Vinalhaven was wounded in Germany—Thomaston High edged Rockland High 56 to 48 in their track meet—Sgt. Carl Wren of Warren was seriously wounded—Albert Lovejoy of the express staff was awarded a gold lapel pin for safe driving—Harry E. Wilbur was elected president of the Baptist Men's League—Among the deaths: Union, Walter F. Calderwood, 70; Union, Frank J. Maguire, 77; Appleton, Edson M. Mitchell, 79.

Mrs. Mildred S. Knight announces the engagement of her daughter, Ruth Louise Sheldon, to Russell Gene Kaler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kaler, an employee of the Central Maine Power Company. The wedding is to take place the coming month.

The Public Library will be closed Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, for the annual Spring cleaning.

The annual banquet of the Alumni Association will be prepared by the Order of Eastern Star June 11. Because of the acute shortage of food, plans for such an occasion must be made well in advance, and members of the Alumni are asked to secure their tickets soon, as a specially co-operative gesture. Miss Winifred Burkett will be at Stevenson's Candy Shop on Saturdays, May 18, 25 and June 1, for the express purpose of selling banquet tickets.

Mrs. William G. Williams is seriously ill at the Boothbay Harbor Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bentley have returned from a visit in Oklahoma.

Mrs. Edwy L. Taylor has opened her home, "Hurricane House" for the Summer months.

Mrs. W. G. Gribbel of Philadelphia was in town for a few days last week.

Mrs. Walter Drown, president of the Camden Garden Club, Mrs. John T. Hughes, Mrs. Ora Brown and Miss Bessie Bowers, secretary, attended the meeting of the Medomak Region of the Maine Federation of Garden Clubs held Thursday in Rockland.

Dr. Roger Bosworth, a Director of Youth Activities for the Universalist Church of America was the speaker at the Rotary Club Tuesday, his discourse being on the "American Christian Palestine Committee" which was interesting and instructive.

The Parent-Teachers' Association will meet Wednesday with Dr. Francis L. Bailey, Dean of Education at Gorham State Teachers' College, as speaker.

Artists and executives who worked so tirelessly and co-operatively for the success of the Memorial Concert which was held in the Opera House on Wednesday certainly can rest comfortably on their laurels during these succeeding days. While there were seats still remaining in the auditorium, there was a good-sized attendance, of appreciative listeners. All artists seemed to be outstanding. Mrs. Willis Monroe was chairman of stage preparations and gave the performers a beautiful background, made particularly memorable by the contribution of Chater's Gardens—a huge, magnificent arrangement of white blossoms, the setting of which on the stage was personally superintended by William Chater. An amount approximating $400 was realized from this concert.

"The other road leads to planned world order; to security at home and abroad; to powerful defenses at every vulnerable spot, and to lasting peace maintained by power of arms. "The American people have come to the end of this war with the greatest Navy in the history of the world. At present we have some 1308 men of war plus thousands of smaller craft. Our Naval aircraft production has kept pace with that

Baptist Men's League

Harry E. Wilbur Re-elected President—Captain Joe Taylor's Notable Address

The Baptist Men's League season drew to a happy close last night, with the annual meeting and annual ladies night. Ninety were in attendance and it was necessary to set up extra tables. The women have done some fine stunts in serving nice meals in this food shortage, but they reached a climax last night with their full-plate turkey supper.

Harry E. Wilbur, who has worked unceasingly to make the past season a successful one, was re-elected. With him next year will be Edmund Wotton and David S. Beach as vice presidents, Herman Hart as secretary, Osmond A. Palmer as treasurer, and Sidney Pierce as auditor. Secretary Hart's report told of seven meetings having been held, with increased attendance. Seven new members have been admitted, and several have been reinstated. Treasurer Palmer gave a satisfactory financial report.

Captain Taylor, the guest speaker was introduced by Frank H. Ingraham, who told of the additional stripe which had been affixed to the sleeve of the former executive officer of the famous carrier, Franklin, Captain Taylor's address was preceded by a motion picture account of the attack which all but sent the Franklin to the bottom.

Far from describing his personal experiences in the near destruction of the Carrier Franklin, Captain Taylor devoted most of his talk to the vital role that Naval Aviation played in World War 2, in both the European and Pacific areas.

Carrier planes became the eyes of the fleet, but more than that they provided the long range artillery and shifting flexible power needed to overcome the advantages of distance and geography the Japanese had in the Pacific.

Naval aviators sank 65 German U-boats, more than half of the total accredited to the U. S. Navy, and it was candulum in the Battle of the Atlantic. In 1942 the U-boats were sinking one in every 233 ships. The rates dropped in 1943 when escort carriers began to be used and it kept dropping until 1944 when only one in every 1000 ships was sunk.

Naval aviation struck even more spectacular blows in the Pacific. Time and again the high speed carriers lashed out at every shipping and aircraft, leaving in their wake battered installations, cratered airfields; knocked out shore batteries and rubble where aircraft factories once stood.

"The American people stand today at the crossroads of decision," said Captain Taylor. "One road leads to complacency to over-confidence, to a few decades of peace and finally to disaster—to a disaster far greater in scope than any we have ever known. If this country suffers another Pearl Harbor it will be the last. There will be no recovery from the next one. Our enemies will not give us the chance. They will make it complete and final."

"The other road leads to planned world order; to security at home and abroad; to powerful defenses at every vulnerable spot, and to lasting peace maintained by power of arms."

"The American people have come to the end of this war with the greatest Navy in the history of the world. At present we have some 1308 men of war plus thousands of smaller craft. Our Naval aircraft production has kept pace with that

An Enrollment Drive

All new membership owners will be admitted to the Kullman-Paulee concert on their 1946-1947 cards.

Mrs. Mary Lawry Garrett will serve as chairman of the opening campaign, dinner Monday at 6.30 and those making reservations for the dinner include: Executive committee: president, Dr. C. Harold Jameson of Camden and Rockland; first vice-president, Miss Dorothy Lawry; general chairman, second vice president, Mrs. Fred A. Snow; third vice president and student ticket chairman, Mrs. Ruth Sanborn; secretary, Mrs. Beulah Ames; treasurer, Herbert C. Newbegin.

Campaign Committee: Chairman, Mrs. Nathalie Snow; headquarters secretary, Mrs. Beulah Ames; dinner chairman, Mrs. Rex Garrett; of the surface forces. We now have about 35,000 planes in the Navy.

"What is to be done with this power now that the enemy has been destroyed? Shall we scrap our fleet as we did after the last war? And as we did after six previous wars in our history? I feel certain we are all agreed on the obvious failure of that plan. To be sure no one puts forth the claim that it is necessary for us to retain our war time fighting strength in a peacetime world. But it is clear that Americans must face with realism the fact that we are now the world's foremost seagoing nation and it is our duty toward international security to retain that control. This nation must maintain a powerful striking force, ready for any emergency. Such a force requires ships and planes and trained personnel."

Captain Taylor answered many questions in the open forum which followed his illuminating address, saying, among other things, that the Japs made their great mistake in not following up their victory at Pearl Harbor. "They had us on our knees," said the speaker.

A pleasing feature of the evening's program was found in finely rendered vocal solos by Richard Nash of Rockport and Paul Payson of Rockland.

A New View of the Thing
"You mustn't be drones," said the school mistress, beaming through her glasses upon the wailing class of freckled boys.

"A drone is all right," retorted the bold, bad boy at the foot of the class.

The school mistress lost her breath for an instant reached for it hastily and got it again, swallowed once or twice and mildly said:

"And why, Thomas, do you think in contradiction of all generally accepted theories, that the drone is as you inelegantly express it, all right?"

"Because," answered the bold, bad boy, at the foot of the class, "he is always studying a bee's case."

And amid the hush that fell upon the assembly the hour of the morning recess went by and the school went into executive session.

A private stationed at the Army Air Force Basic Training Center, N. J., was ordered to wash and clean an officer's inner sanctum. Quickly he went to work. Happily humming a song, he wiped the desk, cleaned the chair, dusted the books. A half hour later the officer walked in. Everything was tip-top—except the floor.

"Private," remarked the officer, "wasn't the floor washed?"
"No," replied the private.
"No what?" exclaimed the irritated officer.
"No map," said the private very meekly.

Methodist "Grads"

The annual banquet for the High School graduates who are connected with the Methodist Church, together with their parents, was given recently by the Womans' Society of Christian Service.

The graduates table was decorated with beautiful Spring flowers and the class colors of green and white. The diploma place cards were tied with the class colors while the favors were small green mortar boards.

Double Parking Case

Will Be Reviewed By Supreme Court the Coming September

The case of Herman Hoffses of Rockland, truck driver for the Boston & Rockland Transportation Co., appealed to Superior Court from Rockland Municipal Court, was reported to the Maine Supreme Judicial Court for decision, by agreement of State and Christopher S. Roberts, attorney for Hoffses.

Hoffses was originally tagged for double parking a tractor-trailer unit about in front of the A & P market at The Brook, while unloading tires for the Bitler Car and Auto Supply, close by.

Had he chosen, according to police who appeared in Municipal Court at the time of his hearing, he could have paid the minimum fee charged for first offense in any traffic regulation and the matter would have been dropped. However, he chose to appear in court and was represented by Mr. Roberts who contended that the law was inconsistent and appealed from the small fine which Hoffses received to Superior Court.

Mr. Roberts contends that Hoffses had not doubled parked, in the language of the ordinance, but was unloading and standing. Furthermore, he claims, that the ordinance is unreasonable in that its language will not permit any motor vehicle to stop momentarily or park double for any purpose whatsoever, even to let out a passenger.

The case is expected to be reviewed in September.

COMMUNITY CONCERT ARTIST

Charles Kullman, the distinguished tenor who sings here on May 24 at the Community Building.

Equally adept in German, French and Italian roles—although he admits to opening his first Berlin Rigoletto with "Quella o quella" instead of the prescribed "Freundlich blüht die Heide," Mr. Kullman is also an enthusiast for opera in English, although he feels that the vernacular is better suited to comedies like "Falstaff" and "The Bartered Bride" than it would be to the lyric tragedies of Verdi and Puccini.

The Memory Man

Tells Interesting Yarn About the "Settlement" in Northern Aroostook

(By Irene Member)

I believe that I promised to tell you about a rather unique "settlement" that was relayed to me by a friend. I jotted down the high points as it was told to me and I thought it might be of interest to The Courier-Gazette readers who desire to peruse my scribbling efforts.

I relay the yarn second hand, but the man who told me the story is a very fine gentleman in whom I have every confidence—and I wish I could relay the yarn to you in as interesting a manner as it was told to me by Emory Roberts, a neighbor of mine.

About ten years back Mr. Robert and Wilbur Boyd piled a lot of luggage—including their wives—into the car and started on a tour of Northern Maine—sort of a vacation trip. They took time to hunt down rumors of anything that sounded interesting and while staying in Fort Kent they heard about the "Settlement" in question, and on investigation here is what they found.

The "Settlement" is located about 35 miles north of Fort Kent and they had to travel the last ten miles by horse power. An old fellow, "Uncle Joe," met and drove them the rest of the distance to the Settlement and they learned during the ten-mile drive that Uncle Joe was a sort of "mayor" of it.

When they left their car he was asked if it would be safe to leave the car parked while they went to the Settlement. "Safe!" Uncle Joe snorted, "course 'twill! Ain't no heves 'bout here—leave yer wallet right on the 'runnin' board if ye like an' ye'll find it right thar when ye git back—we don't touch other folks' stuff in this part of the world, everybody's honest."

(I may interject here that the car and contents were untouched.) They found the Settlement comprised about 150 inhabitants and they seemed to be living in perfect contentment and peace. All the homes were log cabins excepting two small frame dwellings. The first of these were built by a New York man who "discovered" the Settlement while searching for a suitable place to spend his yearly vacations in Maine. The remoteness, quiet, peace and the sterling qualities of the folks who lived in the Settlement so intrigued him that he built a small dwelling and made it his home every year when on vacation.

This man's name was Walsh and so far as could be ascertained he was a New York minister, connected with missionary work of some kind. He conducted church services in the Settlement and was very highly thought of—but I think I had best tell more about the lives of the settlement dwellers before

Was A Big Sunday

Townsendites Forced To Transfer To the Community Building

When the Townsend Congressional Second District Council arrived in Rockland Sunday May 12 to hold its meeting and rally at the Grand Army hall, they found the hall much too small to accommodate the fast coming crowd.

Quick action on the part of the Rockland Townsend officers, and through the courtesy of Jim Flanagan, at the eleventh hour, the visiting Council and Rockland Townsendites had across to the Community Building.

Bernard Lowry of Fairfield was master of ceremonies. Mrs. Ewing at the piano, sang "Rosary" beautifully. Miss Bertha McIntosh also displayed talent with appropriate solos. A fine and interesting talk was given by Mr. Lord of Bangor. G. Ivan Smith, home from Washington was guest speaker.

Incidentally Dr. Townsend will be in Portland the night of June 7 and afternoon of June 9 in Bangor at 1:30.

Those who did not hear Mr. Smith on the latest news from Congress do not realize how near this Plan is to becoming a reality. If all of the 16,000,000 over 60 years of age would do their little bit this Plan could go through without hard, tressome work for those very faithful believers.

The meeting closed at 5 p. m. and although five buses left at 6 p. m. for their respective destinations, Grand Army hall was filled at 6:15 when the evening meeting was called to order. Mr. Lord, Lowry and Mr. Smith again gave interesting talks.

Mrs. Young of Belfast, 10 years member of District Council spoke and read an article very appropriate for the occasion. There was group singing, solos and instrumental music. Few could surpass Mr. Lowry on his poetry recitals. A day well spent when the meeting came to a close at 7:30 p. m. The donations amounted to $47.50.

what they needed, kept a list of what they took and put it back next payday!

This method kept every family well supplied for a full year and the storehouse stock was replenished each year and provided security for all. Fuel was handled in the same manner as the food and clothing—always plenty and to spare. Cows furnished milk and butter, pigs and calves took care of the meat needs and hens and chickens furnished eggs and poultry for everyone in the Settlement.
